Cook county representatives were unable to mass their strength on a candidate. Mr. Mason, the only opposing candidate who could secure any votes outside of Chicago, being unable to mass the strength of Cook county's representatives, has withdrawn, and will throw his strength in favor of Senator Cullom, who will thus have practically no opposition.

—The Rochelle Herald says: "On Sunday night, Oregon, Ogle county was saved from what might have been one of the largest fires in the history of the town by their efficient night watchman Burlingame, who discovered an incendiary fire that had been started between Hart & Brayton's saloon and Howie's oil house. The fire had gained but little headway when it was discovered, and was easily extinguished without doing much damage. It was found that the building where the fire was started had been saturated with kerosene, and twenty feet from the building was a warehouse containing hundreds of gallons of oil."

Casimir-Perier Resigns the Office of President.

ONE RESULT OF A CABINET CRISIS.

What May Follow a Matter That Is Past Prediction—Perplexity and Consternation Reign at Paris Among the Politicians—Reason's for the Executive's Radical Step—Eloquence of Many Statesmen Proves Unavailing to Change His Determination.

PARIS, Jan. 15.—It was announced last evening that Casimir-Perier, president of the French republic, had resigned office. During the evening he conferred with the president of the senate and then summoned M. Guerin, minister of justice; M. Leyques, minister of public instruction; M. Poincarre, minister of finance, and the prefect of the Seine. Leyques had a long conversation with Perier, the result of which is not known. A second official note was issued at 11 o'clock last night, announcing the resignation of the president, and forecasting the ideas he intends to develop in his farewell address to the chamber of deputies.

Tells Why He Drops Office.

The note says that in the eyes of the president Monday's sitting of the chamber and the vote which overthrew the cabinet were only secondary incidents of the struggle which is proceeding against the parliamentary regime and public liberties. Casimir-Perier had hoped that the president of the republic, who is deprived of means of action, would have been exempted from party attacks and the especial confidence of the Republicans would have accorded him power and authority. He had also hoped that those who, despite himself, had placed him in a position where he is unable to defend himself would have undertaken the defense of the first magistrate. Continuing the note says that the president has requested the ministers to temporarily withdraw their resignations in order to facilitate the necessary changes.

Perplexity and Consternation Follow.

Prime Minister Dupuy imparted President Casimir-Perier's decision to the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies, who will forthwith call urgency sittings of those bodies. The greatest perplexity reigns in all political circles. During the afternoon it had been remarked, not without surprise in the lobbies of the Palais Bourbon, that the crisis was not following the customary course, but appeared to be assuming a graver aspect than usual. When the facts became known consternation amounting to almost stupor seized every one. There had been ominous hints in the press that Casimir-Perier was growing tired of his position, yet nobody paid attention to them.

Eloquence of the Statesmen Fails.

The high character, experience, firmness, and integrity of the president inspired the confidence of even the advanced Republicans. The long conference which Casimir-Perier had with Challemel-Lacour, president of the senate, is now explained. He had already resolved to resign. Challemel-Lacour employed his utmost eloquence in a vain endeavor to persuade the president to reconsider his decision, and quitted the palace of the Elysee under a sense of deep distress. All the members of the cabinet from Prime Minister Dupuy down followed Challemel-Lacour, and exhausted every argument to induce Casimir-Perier not to resign. Their efforts were without success. Dupuy again visited the palace of the Elysee later in the evening, and was closeted with the president for forty-five minutes, urging every possible inducement and appealing to every patriotic sentiment in order to get him to recall his determination.

APPEALED TO PERIER'S MOTHER.

But Even She Fails to Change the Course of Events—The Next Step.

All was without avail. After him came M. Spuller, whose eloquence overcame on a former occasion Casimir-Perier's scruples to accepting the position of prime minister. All that the president would concede to these appeals was to delay the publication of his intentions until last night. As Dupuy and Spuller were leaving the Palace of the Elysee together they met in the corridors the president's mother, who is 80 years old. They begged her to entreat her son to remain in office and she promised that she would do her utmost.

It is stated that the interview between mother and son was very affecting. Nevertheless at 9 o'clock Casimir-Perier sent a short letter to Dupuy informing him that his decision was irrevocable, and begging him to notify the presidents of the senate and chamber of deputies and to announce the fact to The Journal Officiel. Dupuy accepted the task thus imposed upon him, and as on the occasion of the death of Carnot finds himself again confronted with the transmission of powers involving difficulties of every description, arising from the unexpected position of affairs.

He seemed to be completely overwhelmed with the sense of his responsibilities, but speedily recovered and with the energy, coolness and foresight that he displayed on the occasion of the assassination of Carnot proceeded to take the measures which the situation demanded. After interviews of the prefect of the Seine and the prefect of police with M. Casimir-Perier, they received from Dupuy instructions to be followed during the crisis.

Article VII of the constitution relating to the change in the presidency provides that in case of a vacation of the office through death or any other cause the national assembly shall proceed forthwith to elect a president. In the interval the council of ministers is invested with executive power. The national assembly being merely an electoral college all discussion therein is prohibited.

The report of the resignation of the president became generally known at 11 o'clock, but was universally discredited and a general movement was made towards the newspaper offices with a view to learning the truth. Very soon the papers exhibited lantern transparencies of the official note. Even then many persons refused to believe that the event was positive. Finally they became convinced that the president had really retired and assembled in groups discussing the chances of those who would be named to succeed him.

Senate and Chamber Summoned.

PARIS, Jan. 16.—The senate and chamber of deputies have been summoned to meet this afternoon to receive government communications. M. Dupuy will read the president's message in the chamber and M. Guerin will read it in the senate. It is believed that the national assembly will meet Thursday. Those best informed as to the political situation believe that Casimir-Perier will be re-elected by a large majority. If not it is probable that the government parties will choose Dupuy as their candidate. The names of Waldeck-Rousseau, Challemel-Lacour, and Spuller are also mentioned in connection with the office.

Astonished Washington Diplomats.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Diplomatic circles here were astonished last night by the news of the resignation of President Casimir-Perier, of France. So unexpected was the announcement that many officials were not inclined to believe it. Neither the secretary of state, the French ambassador nor any of the members of the foreign relations committees of the house and senate had any intimation of such a thing, or any reason to suspect it.

TROLLEY STRIKE AT BROOKLYN.

Strikers Not So Turbulent as They Were and Inclined to Go to Law.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 16.—The electric street railway companies were running a few cars on their lines well guarded by police, and though the strikers obstructed the tracks to some extent the company laborers cleared them without opposition. One car passed through a district where the strikers and their sympathizers are the most reckless, but it was not interfered with.

The strikers contemplate presenting a petition to Mayor Schieren, asking him to end the tie-up by virtue of his official power, and will cite the action taken by Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, in 1891, when he said that the railroad companies had violated the ten-hour law and warned them that if the strike then in progress was not over in twenty-four hours he would declare their charter forfeited.

The second day of the strike was not characterized by much excitement. There were many little clashes between the police and the strikers, but nothing of a serious nature in the way of a riot occurred. After noon the strikers let themselves out a trifle and the police had some difficulty in keeping the great crowd under restraint.

DETROIT, Jan. 16.—Pingree was asked regarding the claim of the Brooklyn strikers that he had ended a strike here by threatening to forfeit the railway company's charter if it did not end the strike in twenty-four hours. He said that while he had not definitely warned the street railway people that he would declare their franchises forfeited if the strike was not immediately ended, the question alluded to by the Brooklyn strikers had been brought forward prominently in his negotiations for a settlement, which settlement was effected by arbitration in favor of the employes.

Bills for Organized Labor.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 16.—The labor leaders of the state are prepared with a number of bills in the interest of their organizations. One of them, and the most important, prohibits employers of any kind—corporative or individual—from refusing to employ a man because he is a member of a labor union, or attempting to prevent him from obtaining employment for the same reason and makes the punishment both fine and imprisonment. Another bill specifies the number of employes that shall be used on passenger and freight trains, and also how switching crews shall be made up, while still another measure makes a weekly pay day compulsory.

Wolcott Reelected Senator.

DENVER, Jan. 16.—A vote for United States senator to succeed United States Senator Wolcott was taken in the legislature. In the house 41 votes were given for Wolcott and 23 for Congressman Pence. In the senate Wolcott received 16 votes; Thomas M. Patterson (Pop.), 16, and Charles S. Thomas (Dem.), 2. Both branches met in joint session at noon today and elected Wolcott.

A Parrot Worth a Life's Ransom.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 16.—At 3 o'clock in the morning J. McGreavy was awakened by the screeches of his parrot that was yelling "Fire! Fire!" He got up and saw the reflection of a bright light, which proved to come from his neighbor's house. He aroused Mr. and Mrs. Arnold, who occupied the house, and they managed to get out with their boy just before the roof fell in.

The Relief Came Too Late.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Jan. 16.—David Pagen, 90 years old, froze to death in his cabin on King's mountain, near Abingdon, Va. His destitute condition was learned by the city authorities and they directed that a load of coal be sent him. The teamster, who lost his way, did not reach the old man until he was dead. The thermometer registered 16 degrees below zero.

Georgia's Help for Nebraska.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—Georgia's response to Nebraska's appeal for help has been made and a special train of fifteen cars loaded with food and clothing has left the Union station for Lincoln. The train will run through on a special schedule and is expected to break the record for freight transportation from this point westward.

Went Down with the False Work.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 16.—A strong wind blew over the false work of a new bridge being erected over the Monongahela river at Homestead, and a number of workmen were dashed to the ground a distance of thirty feet. Chris Rogers was killed instantly, Lewis Cash was fatally crushed, and Mike McLaughlin had his arm crushed.

Striking Weavers Grow Threatening.

LYONS, France, Jan. 16.—A dispatch received here from Roanne, department of the Loire, situated about forty miles from this city, says that 3,000 weavers who are out on strike there threatened to attack the mills. The sub-prefect thereupon read the riot act and a detachment of gendarmes charged upon and dispersed the mob.

McMillan and Burrows Elected.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 16.—United States Senator McMillan was re-elected by the legislature in joint session, receiving a unanimous vote. Julius C. Burrows received all the votes for short term senator except that of Donovan, of Bay (Dem.)

ST. PAUL, Jan. 16.—The Republican caucus committee of the legislature has decided to hold the senatorial caucus Friday evening.

CARNAGE AT BUTTE

Awful Loss of Life Caused by an Explosion.

GIANT POWDER'S FEARFUL WORK.

Seventy-Five Persons Probably Killed and Upwards of Sixty Bodies Recovered So Far.

One Hundred Wounded, Many of Them Fatally—The Whole Town a Hospital—People Mowed Down as with a Scythe—Three Explosions, One After Another, Spread Death and Havoc in All Directions—The Whole Fire Department Wiped Out—Brief Details of a Frightful Disaster.

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 16.—Fire started last night in the Royal Milling company's warehouse in the Montana Central yards, and spread to the Kenyon-Cornell warehouse in which was stored several carloads of giant powder. Just as the firemen were closing around the blaze an explosion occurred, killing a number of firemen and spectators and maiming many others. The firemen who had escaped immediately rallied and were beginning another attack when a second explosion, more violent than the first, took place. The people in the vicinity were mowed down as with a great scythe, and the streets for half a block around looked like a great battlefield.

Shaken as if by an Earthquake.

Debris was thrown high in the air, coming down half a mile away. Many people on the streets in the center of the city were thus injured. A few of the remaining firemen were gathering themselves together and attempting to escape to a place of safety when the third and last exposion occurred. This, too, killed and injured many people. There were several lots of the powder, and all of them exploded. The whole heavens were lighted up and the city shook as if an earthquake was in progress. Immediately after the first explosion the entire hospital corps and police force were summoned, and many of the detachments of these companies are among the killed and injured in the subsequent explosions.

Three Score Mangled Bodies Found.

Every house for blocks around has been turned into an impromptu hospital. Every member of the fire department has been either killed or wounded. The first explosion was the most terrific and killed every fireman save two belonging to the Central station. One of these was standing behind the hose cart horses and the other was at a water hydrant several hundred feet away. So far between fifty and sixty mangled bodies have been recovered and more are being picked up on all sides. It is impossible to give the names at this writing.

Hospitals All Full of Wounded.

It is estimated that about 100 additional persons were injured, several of whom died after being taken to the hospitals. The scene beggars description. At this hour wagons are still taking bodies from the scene of the explosion to the various undertaking establishments and the wounded to their homes and hospitals. The latter are all full. The list of dead will possibly reach seventy-five and the damage to property will be more than $1,000,000.

Unrecognizable Masses of Flesh.

In all three car loads of powder exploded, one of which was stored in the Butte Hardware company's warehouse which adjoined the Kenyon-Cornell warehouse, large pieces of iron were thrown for miles. Several bodies were hurled a long distance and picked up in unrecognizable masses of flesh. Among those killed is Joseph Miller, a prominent attorney of Boise City, and of the wounded three names have been ascertained—Alderman Pascoe, Fire Marshal Cameron and Charles Schatzlein.

Thirty-six Bodies in One Pile.

LATER.—Every moment increases the awful horror of the explosion. Thirty-six dead were gathered in one pile. Many other bodies had already been removed. Most of them were so badly disfigured that identification on the scene was impossible. The heads were missing from a majority of the bodies; legs and arms were lying on every side.

ILLINOIS SOLONS REASSEMBLE.

Little Business Done—A Few Bills Introduced—Committee on Fairs Proposed.

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 16.—All the Republicans and seven Democrats were present in the state senate. The sergeant-at-arms was ordered to find Paisley's desk, which with all his papers had been removed since Saturday. The joint resolutions relating to the Lincoln monument were referred. Bills were introduced: Relating to the management of state's prisons; to provide punishment for false assessments of property and to define citizenship of corporations; providing for a department of banking; authorizing cities with a population between 25,000 and 100,000 to have a special park and boulevard fund.

The house was full in attendance. A resolution to appoint a mail carrier at a salary of $3 per day was passed and was the only business done. The Republican "steering" committee has decided on the creation of a county and state fair committee.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 16.—At a caucus of the members of the legislature from Cook county to decide who they should support for senator on the sixth ballot George S. Willits was chosen.

Mine Disaster in England.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—A sudden rush of water from old workings in the Diglake colliery, at Audley, North Staffordshire, it is believed has caught between ninety and 120 men and boys. Of those in the mine at the time 150 were rescued, but in spite of all efforts it has been impossible so far to reach the others, and it is not known whether they are dead or alive.

TO IMPEACH RICKS

Is What the House Judiciary Committee Decides.

THE PARTY LINES CLOSELY DRAWN,

But One Democrat Voting No and One Republican Yes—Minority Proposes to Try to Defeat the Action at Another Meeting—Procedure in Such Cases—Something More About That Difficulty on the Canadian-Alaskan Boundary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Congress was given a decided surprise by the house committee on judiciary, which decided by a vote of 7 to 6 to report a resolution for the impeachment of Judge Augustus J. Ricks, of Cleveland, for malfeasance in office. Not for many years has a United States judge been called before the bar of the senate to defend his right to wear the ermine of office against criminal charges, and only three or four times in the history of the government has an impeachment trial of a member of the federal judiciary been conducted. Few members had looked into the charges preferred by the Central Labor Union, of Cleveland, the accuser of Judge Ricks, that while sitting on the bench he paid to himself fees which he claimed he had previously earned as clerk of the court, and to which it is now asserted he was not entitled.

Looms into a Sensation.

The number of years which have elapsed since the transaction, and the contention of the judge's friends that the proceedings were inspired by a ruling prejudicial to the interests of labor unions which he made recently, tended to lessen the interest which ordinarily would have been taken in the case. Now that the judiciary committee has deemed the matter of sufficient gravity to warrant impeachment it has become suddenly a decided sensation. The friends of Judge Ricks declared that there are large possibilities that the impeachment may not be undertaken. They depend on members who were absent from the stormy committee meeting to join with them Friday in voting to substitute a minority report for the one which Bailey will prepare and which will be a strong arraignment of the judge if couched in the tenor of his speeches yesterday.

The House in Impeachment Cases.

There is doubt of the parliamentary possibility of such a stroke, but the short time remaining to congress inspired the belief that the case will go over to the next congress. In that event the impeachment probably will not be undertaken, as the division yesterday was practically on party lines, with the Republicans supporting Judge Ricks. The The function of the house is that of a grand jury in such cases. It decides whether sufficient cause is shown to justify a trial and appoints managers who act as prosecutors. The senators sit in the capacity of judges or jurors with the judge of the supreme court presiding.

Vote in Committee in Detail.

The vote by which the impeachment report was adopted was as follows: For impeachment—Culberson of Texas, Stockdale of Mississippi, Boatner of Louisiana, Lane of Illinois, Bailey of Texas, DeArmond of Missouri, Democrats, and Updegraff of Iowa, Republican. Against impeachment—Ray of New York, Powers of Vermont, Broderick of Kansas, W. A. Stone, of Pennsylvania, Childs of Illinois, Republicans, and Goodnight, Democrat. Harrison, Democrat, of Louisiana, who was present, refrained from voting. The absentees were Layton of Ohio, Wolverton of Pennsylvania and Terry of Arkansas. The resolution will be reported to the house Friday as privileged business, taking precedence over everything else. The Republicans accuse the Democrats of holding prejudices against federal judges and of losing no opportunity to strike at them.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY QUESTION.

Depends on the Interpretation Given to an Anglo-Russian Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The officials of this government are well aware of the feeling of the British government, but more particularly of the Canadians, on the subject of the boundary line question. A commission consisting of W. F. King, of Canada, and Professor T. C. Mendenhall, of the United States, is now making surveys, but it will be two years before enough data is collected to arrive at a conclusion. The whole question turns on the interpretation of the words of the treaty negotiated between England and Russia in the eighteenth century, by which the boundary line was fixed at ten marine leagues from the coast. Along the portion of the coast of Alaska where Juneau is located there are many indentations and the question is whether the ten marine leagues are to be measured from the islands adjoining or from the continental coast line.

The establishment of a port by the Canadian government on Taku inlet would be of very great benefit to it. Their vessels could enter the port without the payment of duties and a trade route could be established by which the Yukon country might be reached in a much shorter time and less expensive manner than now, when their goods are carried in vessels which are obliged to skirt the Aleutian islands, pass through the Behring sea and enter the Yukon river at its mouth. The question of what is the right boundary line is a very important one, but its solution is several years off yet.

A MATTER OF IMPORTANCE.

State Department Embarrassed by the Action of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The failure of the house committee on appropriations to make provision in the sundry civil appropriation bill, just completed, for the payment of the Behring sea claims and for our share of the expense of maintaining the Samoan government, unless corrected, is likely to place our government in an embarrassing position. In the case of the Behring sea awards the state department officials are confident that provision for their payment will be made, if not in this bill in a separate joint resolution.

They hold that the United States is absolutely bound by the Paris arbitration to pay these claims. The only question at issue was whether this should be done by a separate treaty or by direct arrangement between the governments of the United States and Great Britain and Secretary Gresham select the method which in his judgment involved the smallest expenditure of money.

The creation of a special commission to deal with the subject would be very expensive. In the case of Samoa our government is solemnly bound by the treaty of Berlin to contribute one-third of the expense of the salaries of certain officials and other items necessary to the maintenance of the government there.

George and Allen in Wordy War.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The only bright spot in the senate debate was when Allen claimed that the popular election of senators was a Populist idea. George of Mississippi took issue with him and showed that the doctrine was put in Mississippi Democratic resolutions before the Populists were thought of. He said that everything in the Populist platform that was any good was Democratic and undertook to prove it if Allen would give him a copy of the platform. Allen gave him a document which George declared was not the Populist platform but one of Allen's own. Then Allen charged George with hedging and dodging and the colloquy created much amusement in the galleries and on the floor.

Mrs. Lincoln's Sister Removed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—On the recommendation of Representative Montgomery, of Kentucky, Mrs. Benjamin Helm, widow of a noted Confederate general, was removed from the position of postmistress at Elizabethtown, Ky., and F. W. Joplin appointed. Mrs. Helm was the sister of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, nee Tod, and therefore Robert T. Lincoln's aunt. When he was secretary of war he got her the appointment, which she held through three administrations.

Senate and House in Brief.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The senate gave the day to further speeches in which the income tax served as a text for a wide range of discussion on the tariff, the currency and the Populist platform, and it looks like the talk was "on tap" for good. Speeches were made by Call, Allen and others.

The day in the house was devoted after the morning hour to the Indian appropriation bill, but no progress was made before adjournment.

United Potters' Association.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The first session of the nineteenth annual convention of the United Potters' association was held at the Arlington hotel. There were about fifty members of the association present. President Burgess, referring to the action of congress in reducing the customs duty on pottery, said that never before had the pottery industry received such a blow.

It Will Be Called Appomattox.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The long consideration of the propositions and protests arising from the recent change of the name of the old Appomattox postoffice in Virginia to Surrender has resulted in an order promulgated by the postoffice department restoring the name Appomattox to the office.

To Repeal That Differential.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The house ways and means committee has decided to report to the house Wilson's bill to remove the one-tenth of one cent a pound differential on sugar imported from countries giving an export bounty, which has elicited protests from Germany, Austria and other nations.

LEGISLATIVE ROW IN KANSAS.

Populists in the Senate Overridden by the Presiding Officer.

TOPEKA, Jan. 16.—A sensational incident took place in the Kansas senate when that body received a concurrent resolution from the house providing that both bodies go into joint session to elect a state printer. A substitute was offered by Dennison (Pop.) to the effect that no certificate of election shall be issued to any one unless he receive a majority in each house. This takes advantage of the ambiguous construction of two laws, one covered by the constitution, the other by statute.

The substitute passed, but was overruled by Lieutenant Governor Troutman, presiding officer, who declared that the time fixed by the constitution for electing state printer had arrived and he would adjourn the senate and asked the senators and officers to proceed to the house for the purpose set forth. All the Republicans, the two Democrats and one Populist senator (True) went to the joint session, wherein Major J. K. Kudson, editor of the Tokepa Capitol, was declared chosen state printer by the following vote: Hudson, 104; Snow (Pop.) 26.

The house being Republican and the senate Populist a majority of each house is hardly possible for any candidate of the parties. Meanwhile the Populist senators remained in the senate chamber presided over by King (Pop.), president pro tem. The senators remaining declared themselves in session, overruling President Troutman's decision. They proceeded to denounce the Republicans as "revolutionists" and anarchists, and declared that no state printer could be elected save by majority of each house.

He Wrote a Celebrated Book.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Professor John Robert Seeley, regius professor of modern history at Cambridge university, is dead. Professor Seeley was born in London in 1834. His chief work published anonymously in 1865 is entitled "Ecce Homo; a Survey of the Life and Work of Jesus Christ." It created great excitement among the members of the various Protestant communions and elicited numbers of replies.

Wants a Coal Company's Charter.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Attorney General Moloney stated his case against the Spring Valley Coal company to Judge Baker in the presence of the company's attorneys and accompanied by some wrangling of lawyers. Moloney wants the company's charter forfeited because it maintains no office in Chicago, which it should do, according to the charter as Moloney interprets it.

A Murderer at Sixteen.

NOT A BRIDAL PARTY.

But the Massachusetts Man Wanted to Know All About It.

They were wandering up and down the waiting room of the Grand Central station, and neither seemed inclined to talk much, although from the glances they occasionally bestowed upon one another it was plain that there was a degree of relationship existing between them. Suddenly the young man left the young woman's side and crossed to the newsstand, where he purchased a paper. Returning, he conducted his companion to a seat.

Hardly were they seated before one of those inquiring individuals who must talk to somebody placed himself in the next seat and eyed them inquisitively, to their visible annoyance. He could not curb his propensity to talk, and thus began:

"Strangers in the city?"

"Yes," said the man shortly.

"Taking a train?" was the next query.

"Yes."

"Maybe you are going my way?" continued he of the inquiring turn of mind.

"Maybe. We are going to Boston."

"Ah, you belong there?"

"I do," was the man's answer.

"Fine city," went on the inquisitive one. "You don't see the papers filled up with divorces and scandals there as you do here. I belong to Massachusetts myself. Worcester is my home, and a divorce case or an elopement is a rarity. You seem to have gone into matrimony recently?" looking at them patronizingly.

"Rather," was the tired response.

"Might I inquire your business?"

"Certainly. I am a detective."

"On your honeymoon?"

"No," answered the detective, folding up his paper. "I'm taking back a prisoner."

"Why! You don't mean to say"—looking at the woman in astonishment.

"I do."

"I thought she was your wife."

"So she is, and my prisoner. To save you inquiry, she eloped with another man the day I married her, and I tracked her here."

"And you are taking her back to justice?"

"No, to marry her. I guess the job wasn't properly done, so we're going to do it over again."

"Is she from Boston too?"

"No. From Worcester."

"Oh!" The inquisitive man said no more.—New York Recorder.

A FAMOUS NOVELIST.

Hall Caine is said to resemble Shakespeare in the keen intelligence of his features and in the intellectual height of his prominent forehead. He possesses a highly nervous organization, and his first novel came near bankrupting him in health. His best work is done after midnight in the early morning hours. He is a native of the isle of Man, a Manxman, and is 45 years old, or thereabouts. Much of his time is spent in travel, when he exerts his powers of observation and gathers material for future use. His home is in the English lake country, overlooking Derwentwater and above the town of Reswick. It is called "Hawthorns."

The novelist is also at times a poet, as he occasionally writes some verses for publication. He has decided religious tendencies, which take the form of investigation. He contemplates writing a life of Christ, and as he excels in terse, epigrammatic sentences his style would be in the direct line of Biblical truths. He is conscientious and painstaking in all his literary methods, and his readers recognize in him one who has sincerity as a superstructure for every romance of which he is the architect.—New York Advertiser.

Meant For the Minister.

A popular minister in Fifeshire, in the good old times, used at Christmas to be inundated with hampers filled with good things. On one occasion an enormous turkey was sent to him by the thoughtful kindness of a neighboring farmer, but as the minister's family had already provided for the Christmas dinner the bird was sent to the market and sold.

A passerby, seeing this fine specimen of poultry, said, "What a splendid turkey! Just the thing for the minister's Christmas dinner!" To the minister it was again sent.

The provident wife sent it again to the market and sold it again for a handsome sum.

Another friend, similarly struck with the splendid proportions of the turkey, purchased it and sent it to the minister. The good woman, not wishing to fly in the face of Providence, said at last:

"It is clear that the Lord means us to have this turkey," and with the approbation of the family it formed part of the Christmas dinner.—Youth's Companion.

A Clever Woman.

The director of a Chicago bank tells about how his wife overdrew her account at the bank last month. "I spoke to her about it one evening," says he, "and told her she ought to adjust it at once. A day or two afterward I asked her if she had done what I suggested. 'Oh, yes,' she answered. 'I attended to that matter the very next morning after you spoke to me about it. I sent the bank my check for the amount I had overdrawn!'"

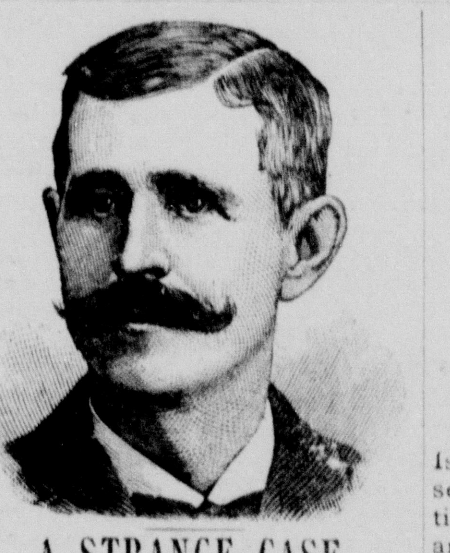
"Can't, eh? Well, you just watch me!" And he shot out of sight.—American Wheelman.

The brooches used in Rome during the first and second centuries very often had a martial appearance. They were fashioned after swords, helmets, battleaxes and bows.



A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recomendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

Corn Stalk Disease

A dangerous dicase, known as the "Corn stalk disease" has made its appearance among cattle in Central Illinois. It is caused by feeding the cattle corn fodder that has been poisoned by a rusty fungus growth which attacks the corn during its development and stunts its growth, turning the stalks and blades a rusty color. This fungus germ is taken into the stomach, and thence into the system. It affects the brain and causes paralysis, and in many cases the animal will be found dead before it is discoverd that it is ailing. The first symptom noticed is a slight trembling of the body and limbs. The severity of the attack rapidly increases until the animal is unable to stand. When the victim falls no symptoms of pain are manifested, but they rapidly pass into a comatose state and die in from one to six hours.

Robbery.

Grant Robbins and Philip Schembeer two photographers, who have been making their home in this city for the past three months, were robbed in their room over the Exchange saloon last night. Will Daupman applied for a room at the Keystone hotel late last night and as the rooms there were all occupied, he was taken to Robbins and Schember's room, in which there are two beds. The room is in charg, of Mr. Gurnee. Daupman knew the young men had money and it is supposed that he no sooner got into the room than he went through their clothes and secured about thirty-five dollars in money and then made his escape. Two gold watches were not taken. Daupman was last seen at the North-western depot in company with Will Conners, a young man from Chicago who has until recently acted as cook at the Colorado restaurant. Daupman bought two tickets for Fulton, and the two men went west on the 1:17 train.

Officers are on the track of the thief and he will probably be arrested and brought back to this city tomorrow.

Eusiness Situation.

Dun's Review of business for last week says there has been no material change in business. Many cherish the hope that a strong revival in business will soon take place. The defeat of the currency bill, which was considered a vicious measure, has relieved a great deal of apprehension, but the deficiency of treasury receipts remains and the expectation of gold goes on.

There is more money coming in from the interior, and the business of the country does not yet afford larger use for it, so that no gain appears in commercial loans. It is a most significant fact that money still comes to this center largely during the first two weeks of January.

Failures for the first three days of the year were rather large, as is natural, with liabilities of $1,622,203, of which $266,331 were of manufacturing and $1,347,372 of trading concerns. Failures this week are 420 in the United States, against 474 last year, and 54 in Canada, against 57 last year.

Butter Making on the Farm.

In reference to the article in last week's TELEGRAPH on "Butter making on the farm," I wish to say to Mrs. Augusta Mitchell and any others that may think of doing likewise, that with the herd which she has got, I would lay aside her antedeluvian way of making butter and put in a hand separator; then she could hitch the hired man onto the crank and have him raise the cream too. It is just as easy as churning. When the milk is skimmed, if there is not enough for a churning, I would cool it down, so as to keep it sweet until I got enough to churn, then would heat it up to the temperature of churning and add a little sour cream for a starter, provided it had not already started to sour; and as soon as it has come to the proper acidity, it is ready to churn. The butter will be of more uniform and finer quality, and there will be more of it; and you have saved the labor of carrying it down cellar and up again. Perhaps Mr. Mitchell or the ponies might kick about the skimmed milk being poor; but you could replace the fat with a little oil cake, cheaper than butter at twenty-five cents a pound.

Then with regard to washing butter. I don't think water injures the butter quite as much as butter milk, or the hard working of it to get it out. When the butter has come to the size of kernels of wheat or corn, stop the churn and put in as much water as there is milk, and turn it several times round, then draw it all off, then put in as much water as you had water and milk before, and give a couple more turns and draw off and let stand for a few minutes to drain. When it is ready to salt, which can be done with very little working. The butter will be very fine grained and with no perceptible loss of flavor.

Aid For Nebraska

Mr. Charles White of this city, who was one of the seven commissioned by Governor Mellette, of South Dakota, to solicit aid for the destitute of that state in 1888, has received the following letter from Nebraska:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 14, 1895.

MR. CHAS. WHITE, Dixon, Ill.

Dear Sir: The Governor directs me to state, that the people of western Nebraska will thouroughly appreciate any voluntary contributions made from their more fortunate neighbors in Illinois. By organized effort we are endeavoring to provide the necessities of life to the unfortunate needy in the western portion of Nebraska where the drouth was severe. All consignments should be made to the State Relief Commission at Lincoln, of which Rev. L. P. Ludden is Secretary.

Yours very truly,
BENTON MARET,
Private Secretary.

From Sublette.

Scores of our people are visiting Dixon during the present term of court, called there as witnesses in the case of Swisher, the scalded fireman, against the Illinois Central Railroad company.

The week of prayer was observed in our Congregational church.

A son of William Dachler had a narrow escape last Sunday. He was out hunting rabbits, his gun was accidentally discharged, and the shot hit the clothes at his breast and took some of the flesh off the palm of his left hand.

John Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Methven of Oak Park; and Mrs. E. M. Cook of Amboy were here last Friday, attending the funeral of Miss Methven.

Jane Sherwood Methven died of apoplexy, January 9th, at her home with J. B. Barton, after an illness of five days. Was buried from the Congregational church on Friday, Elder Holmes, conducting the furneral obsequies. She was a native of Dundee, Scotland. With her mother, two sisters and an only brother, she came to America about fifty years ago, the father having preceeded them to this country. They lived about two years near Dixon; then removed to Sublette township, where she has resided nearly all the time since. She was an invalid most of her life, which caused her to reject overtures contemplating marriage. Gifted with more than average mental ability, she read and assimilated such books as Butler's Analogy, and was well versed in scientific and religious facts. She accepted the bible as the sufficient rule of faith and practice, and lived and died in the Christian hope. J. B. B.

Young Mrs. Winthrop, which for eight months crowded the Madison Square Theatre in New York, is the attraction that will be seen at the Dixon opera house, Thursday night. The play is from the pen of the foremost of American playwrights, Bronson Howard, author of Shenandoah, The Henriette, Aristocracy, and many other metropolitan successes; it is, according to the author's own admission, the best play he has produced, and its unparalleled success shows that on this occasion the public and the author has agreed upon this subject upon which they so often disagree. Its advent here is the most important theatrical event of the season and should prove a record breaker as it has elsewhere. The company is the strongest that could be secured and includes Collin Kemper, Robert McWade, Errol Dunbar, William Hunt, Miss Lansing Rowan, Miss Una Abell, Miss Lillian Schovelin, Mrs. Annie Mortimer and others.

EDWARD E. PETTIT.
The Optical Specialist.

Is now at DR. D. B. VAUGHN'S office, and will remain until Wednesday, January 23rd.

Don't fail to see me, as I cure many afflictions through treatment of the eyes, such as nervousness and nervous prostration, dull and splitting headaches, bachaches, dizziness, neuralgia and stomach troubles. Could give you hundreds of testimonials as I have treated people for defective eyes from every state in the Union and not a few from foreign countries. I find many people wearing glasses that fail to correct the trouble, as often imperfect fitting causes trouble, unknown to the patient as to the cause that produces it. The eye is the most valuable of any of the special senses, the most delicate and complicated, and yet the most neglected and abused. It is no wonder that, as old age comes on we often have cataracts and loss of vision. Eyes should be attended to as soon as they give any trouble and in nearly every case vision can be restored and our sight prolongued.
